

Candidates for 2021 Scottish Pharmaceutical Board Election (p1/2)

William (Iain) BISHOP

“Championing digital inclusion and skill-building for pharmacy”

Kathryn BOOTH

“Vote for me if you work or live in rural Scotland, I’m here with you and I’ll be your voice.”

Tamara CAIRNEY

“Confident and experienced early career pharmacist with a passion for wellbeing, inclusion and professional development committed to representing our profession”

Andrew CARRUTHERS

“I am a pharmacist working at the coalface with the enthusiasm and determination required to improve services and the profession.”

Omolola (Lola) DABIRI

“I will represent diversity and utilise my passion in optimising pharmacists’ professional wellbeing, confidence, potential & remuneration.”

Rizwan DIN

“I will be highlighting issues and difficulties faced by pharmacists working at the front line.”

Lucy DIXON

“With extensive cross-sector and quality improvement experience, I’m an excellent choice to develop and promote a truly integrated pharmacy service.”

Farzana HAQ

“Incredibly passionate about promoting pharmacy to the public, strive to support the development of the profession and interests of pharmacists.”

Catriona SINCLAIR

“I want an RPS that represents all pharmacists in all settings and locations and is open to challenge and change.”

Candidates for 2021 Scottish Pharmaceutical Board Election (p2/2)

Jacqueline SNEDDON

“I will support pharmacists and their teams to provide clinically focused care for patients seeking advice about common clinical conditions.”

Audrey THOMPSON

“I bring significant local and national experience to ensure policy reflects clinical practice and promotes all sectors of pharmacy”

Lauren Gibson formally withdrew from the SPB election on 19th April.